Emergency Preparedness: Beware of Swift Rivers

With a great snow year and a beautiful spring, the Ogden River and the Weber River are running high and fast. The spring runoff will continue. This is great news to follow the years of drought we've seen, but take caution when considering recreation in and around our rivers. It's always best to stay away from the rivers when water is high and swift. Keep a constant eye on children and pets.

The recent restoration of the Ogden River took into account the 100-year flood plain and safe gaps were built in to help mitigate potential flooding hazards to property owners. This is the reason we have not experienced flooding this year in the Ogden area. Nevertheless, take time now to evaluate possible flood risks on your property and make plans for what steps you'd take if a flood were to occur. More tips on preparing for flooding can be found at www.ready.gov/flood.

Fireworks Safety from our Fire Department

Ogden Fire Department encourages residents to enjoy fireworks responsibly this year by attending a professional fireworks show. Consumer fireworks can be dangerous:

- More fires are reported on Independence Day than any other day throughout the year. Two of five of those fires are caused by fireworks—more than any other cause of fires that day.
- In 2011 fireworks caused an estimated 17,800 reported fires in the US resulting in 8 deaths, 40 injuries, and an estimated $32 million in property damage.
- In 2012 US hospital emergency rooms treated an estimated 8,700 people for fireworks related injuries; 31% were injuries to the head and 55% were injuries to the extremities.
- The highest risk of fireworks injury is for young people ages 15 to 24, followed by children under the age of 10.

Don't be a statistic to be reported in future years; take fireworks safety seriously. And remember the safest way to enjoy fireworks is at a professional fireworks show.
